

Pat Summitt, the all-time winningest coach in NCAA basketball history and best-selling author of Reach for the Summit and Raise the Roof, tells for the first time her remarkable story of victory and resilience as well as facing down her greatest challenge: early-onset Alzheimers disease. Pat Summitt was only 21 when she became head coach of the Tennessee Vols womens basketball team. For 38 years, she has broken records, winning more games than any NCAA team in basketball history. She has coached an undefeated season, co-captained the first womens Olympic team, was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame, and has been named Sports Illustrated Sportswoman of the Year. She owes her coaching success to her personal struggles and triumphs. She learned to be tough from her strict, demanding father. Motherhood taught her to balance that rigidity with communication and kindness. She is a role model for the many women shes coached; 74 of her players have become coaches. Pats life took a shocking turn in 2011, when she was diagnosed with early-onset Alzheimers disease, an irreversible brain condition that affects 5 million Americans. Despite her devastating diagnosis, she led the Vols to win their 16th SEC championship in March 2012. Pat continues to be a fighter, facing this new challenge the way shes faced every other - with hard work, perseverance, and a sense of humor.
